

THE WDP INFORMATION PACKAGE

The Work and Development Permit (WDP) Scheme is a social justice initiative by Fines Victoria that allows eligible people to 'work off' their unpaid fines by engaging with health practitioners & organisations (known as 'sponsors'). Sponsors provide treatment, courses and other activities and report participation to help reduce this debt.

Peninsula Community Legal Centre (PCLC) has received funding from the Legal Services Board to develop the WDP Information Package. This does not replace reading material provided by the Fines Victoria WDP Team.

The WDP Information Package is designed to assist sponsors (health practitioners and organisations) integrate the WDP Scheme and includes –

Tom's story (client)

Tom is 17 years old and struggling with a drug addiction. He has $2,000 in unpaid fines.

Tom has received advice on his fines options from his local community legal centre.

Tom has been attending a drug treatment program at an organisation called YouthOrg.

YouthOrg agrees to become Tom's sponsor.

YouthOrg applies for a WDP on behalf of Tom and by attending his drug treatment program Tom is able to 'work off' $1090.45 per month off his unpaid fines.

In two months Tom's fines debt is cleared.

YouthOrg's story (sponsor)

YouthOrg provides youth drug and alcohol treatment programs. YouthOrg has a client (Tom) who has a drug addiction and $2,000 in unpaid fines.

Tom currently sees Susie (Alcohol and Drug Youth Worker at YouthOrg) and YouthOrg agrees to become Tom's sponsor. YouthOrg gets accredited with Fines Victoria.

YouthOrg applies for Tom's WDP using the portal. Tom is eligible for a WDP because of his addiction issues and Susie has a record of this in her case notes. Susie also keeps a record of the signed Info Consent Form.

On the portal, Susie reports the time Tom spends in his drug treatment program each month. She has a record of Tom's attendance on their system.

Tom 'works off' his unpaid fines by $1090.45 per month and in two months YouthOrg has helped Tom clear his fines debt.
