New Website for Victims of Crime

Peninsula Community
Legal Centre Inc

Peninsula Community Legal Centre welcomes the introduction of a new website specifically for victims of crime.

Peninsula Community Legal Centre's Acting Principal Lawyer, Brendan Stackpole, says:

"The new website provides important information for victims of crime concerning the necessary police and court procedures and where they fit in this process. Access to this information assists to educate about the criminal process and helps to make the process more transparent for the victim.

"Links to other support services and potential things to consider after the court process has concluded are particularly important inclusions in the website.

"Whilst the website provides some legal information, it is imperative that victims seek individual legal advice about their situation and the remedies that they may be able to seek."

Peninsula Community Legal Centre has been providing free legal services to the community for over 30 years and operates branches in Frankston, Cranbourne, Rosebud, Bentleigh and the Pines (Frankston North), as well as operating visiting 'outreach' services in a range of locations.

For more information about free legal services, please call Peninsula Community Legal Centre's Head Office on (03) 9783 3600 or visit www.pclc.org.au.
